Good morning everybody! I’m thrilled to be your host for this year’s 16th annual Broadway on Broadway celebration! We’ve got performances from 21 different shows, featuring 200 amazing Broadway performers—for free! What a way to launch the 2007-2008 Broadway season!

And what better way to jumpstart this year’s concert than what you just heard—the overture to the classic musical FUNNY GIRL, played by 30 of the most talented musicians in New York, members of the American Federation of Musicians, Local 802 and led by legendary Broadway conductor, Paul Gemignani (jem-in-YAN-ee). Let’s have another big round of applause for Paul and this fantastic orchestra!

I've been lucky enough to perform in front of huge crowds all over the world during my career. But I must say, nothing quite prepares you to stand up here and look out on 50,000 screaming Broadway fans jamming Times Square. I wish you guys could come up and experience this. Which reminds me...

At this year's Broadway on Broadway, the spotlight is on you—the Broadway fans! And for the first time, we introduced an exciting new contest: BROADWAY'S BIGGEST FAN. Who here is a Broadway fan?

Over the last few weeks, fans logged on to BroadwaysBiggestFan.com and submitted 60-second videos explaining their passion for Broadway. These were then narrowed down to the top ten by our guest celebrity judge (he'll be joining us later in the show). And over the last few weeks, Broadway fans across the country narrowed the submissions down even further to the top three.

Throughout the show we will be showing you the top three videos on the giant screens here in Times Square. And later, YOU will cast your vote and ultimately decide who will hold the title of Broadway's Biggest Fan.
